Mrs. Hetty Green New Home In New York's Fashionable Quarter

MRS. HETTY GREEN, popularly credited with being the world's richest woman, has a new home, having leased the house at No. 5 West Ninetieth street, New York. Living in a "brownstone front" is something of a new experience for Mrs. Green. Despite her great wealth she has always been credited with being of a thrifty turn of mind, and her places of abode have not been of a character to set back her bank account to any very great extent. For years she occupied a flat in Hoboken, N. J., said to have cost $15 a month. A few years ago she created a mild sensation by going to live at one of New York's leading hotels in rooms for which it was said she paid $30 a day. But her stay there was measured in days, and back she went to Hoboken. For a time, after the marriage of her daughter Sylvia to Matthew Astor Wilks, she made her home with the Wilkses in ultra fashionable Madison avenue near the home of J. Pierpont Morgan and other notables. But she soon tired of that and again went back to her little flat. Now announcement is made that she will reside permanently at the West Ninetieth street house, which adjoins the stylish Central Park West and overlooks the park. Whether this latest home will be to her entire liking remains to be seen, but she gives promise of continuing there now that she has turned her business cares over to her son and looks forward to a life of quiet and ease.

JUDGMENT IN BUSICK CASE WAS CONTINUED

The Evidence all Brought Out This Morning Before Judge Eure.

In Municipal Court this morning quite a large crowd was gathered to hear the proceedings of the already famous case of the state against Will Busick for an assault with a deadly weapon.

On August 8 a quarrel began in the pool room located in the basement of the Guilford Hotel. Will Busick was in charge of the place at the time of the quarrel and was engaged in a game of pool with a boy named Hickey, who testified that he had a small table at home and was there for the purpose of learning the fine points in the game. The quarrel began in this way. Hudson, a larger boy than Busick, came down to the pool room and was looking on the game. According to Busick, Hudson picked up his, Busick's, black hat and was in the act of rubbing some talcum powder into it when Busick requested him that he would not ruin his hat. Thereupon Hudson threw the hat at Busick and Busick threw it back, at the same time making a pass at Hudson with a cue. The quarrel thickened and at the end of the game Hudson dared Busick to come out behind the Elks' Club building and have it out. Busick did not go at first, but after being taunted and jeered at as a coward by some friends of Hudson, he went out to the corner of Green and Sycamore where the fight occurred.

The fight proper began with Hudson knocking Busick's hat off, and then striking him on the right jaw, whereupon Busick drew his knife and gave Hudson

MANY Boats and Yachts Smashed in Storm Which Broke Over Lake Michigan.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—In a storm which broke over Lake Michigan shortly after midnight scores of motor boats and yachts were smashed early this morning. The damage is estimated at more than $20,000. The storm was the worst seen here in years.

AUSPICIOUS OPENING AT ELON COLLEGE.

Special to Telegram. Elon College, Sept. 7.—The twenty-second annual session of Elon College opened yesterday under most favorable circumstances. Immediately after the chapel services, which were conducted by Dr. J. U. Newman and Rev. J. W. Welton, the work of matriculation and registration began, and when the registrars books closed at five o'clock it was found that the number of students enrolled exceeded the number enrolled on opening days last year by twenty two and one half per cent, and last year's enrollment was the largest up to that time in the institutions history. Every train for the next several days is scheduled to bring an additional quota of students. The regular lecture work began today.

a stab which came near causing him to lose his life. After several witnesses had testified both for the defense and the state, each side rested its case and speeches were made by lawyers for the defense and the State.

Judge Eure ordered that judgment be continued until tomorrow morning. From the evidence turned in, the prospect for the defendant looks bright, but of course the decision of the court cannot be predicted.

PETITION FOR NEW SCHEDULE OUT OF RALEIGH

Norfolk and Southern and A. C. L. will be Asked to Change Present One.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—A large number of interested citizens have signed a petition just filed with the Corporation Commission appealing for a change of schedule for Norfolk and Southern and Atlantic Coast Line trains leaving Greenville morning and evening so that connections can be assured that will prove of great convenience to the traveling public. The morning train on the Norfolk & Southern leaves Greenville at 7:51 and the Atlantic Coast Line leaves at 8:18. And in the afternoon the Norfolk & Southern leaves at 6:30 and the Atlantic Coast Line at 6:33. The demand is for these morning trains to be required to connect and the afternoon trains to connect also. In this way it is pointed out it would be possible for people between Greenville and Kinston to leave their homes in the morning and come to Raleigh and intermediate points and transact business and return the same day, whereas, it now requires two days for this trip. The petition also asks that the connections at Kinston be investigated for the reason that the train arriving at Kinston for Beaufort and the Atlantic Coast Line train for Weldon arrive at the same time without maintaining connections. If this connection were required, which could be done with a fifteen minute change of schedule it would be a great convenience for people of Grifton, Ayden, Winterville, Greenville, Parmele, Robersonville, Williamston, Jamesville and Plymouth. The insistence is made that these connections asked for in the petition would have a most gratifying effect on the rapidly and convenience of travel from the great north-eastern section of the state through all the western section of the state.

TO DECIDE ON HIGH POINT ROAD.

Winston Board of Trade Will Probably Take Action Tonight.

Winston, Sept. 7.—Whether or not the local Board of Trade will launch a campaign for macadamizing the stretch of the High Point road lying in Davidson and thus form a fine highway between here and High Point most likely will be decided at the regular meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock. It is known that there is great interest in the proposition and that many of the leading members of the board will urge that the missing link of an otherwise almost perfect highway be filled in by the co-operation of the trade organizations of High Point and Winston-Salem.

A gentleman from High Point yesterday stated that he stood ready at any time to contribute $100 towards completing the road and that he was not by any means alone—that there were many others in High Point who would do as much or more than he.

The matter will certainly be brought up at the Board of Trade meeting tonight and it remains to be seen what action will be taken.

DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY GONE

Baltimore, Sept. 7.—Acting Captain Hogan and his plain clothes men are trying to locate $2,500 worth of diamonds and jewelry, the property of Joseph Castberg 106 North Eutaw street. The report of the loss was made by Mr. Castberg to detective headquarters and says that on August 31 Benjamin Heideberg, who has been employed as a salesman by his firm for the last eight years, returned to the office about 1 o'clock saying he felt ill from the effects of a toothache. The report says he gave the sample case to Walter Curry, the bookkeeper, and that he saw Mr. Curry put the case in the safe. Mr. Curry, the report says, does not remember putting the case in the safe, but is unable to say whether he did so or not. But on Friday, September 1, when Mr. Heideberg returned for his sample case it could not be found. The case contained 23 diamond and set rings, 3 scarfpins and 1 single stone diamond stud. Detective Kratz and Brennan have been assigned to the case.

Burgess in Good Condition.

Deal, Eng., Sept. 7.—William Burgess, who swam the English channel yesterday, felt no ill effects from his long swim today.

PLANT OF RALEIGH EVENING TIMES CHANGES HANDS

J. V. Simms and John C. Drewry Sell Newspaper to John A. Park & Co.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—J. V. Simms and John C. Drewry, owners of the Raleigh Daily Times today sold the plant and good will to John A. Park and associates who will continue to publish an afternoon daily here. There will be no change in the present staff. The purchase price was paid in gold to President and General Manager Simms.

Mr. Park says the new interests took charge of the paper purely as a business investment without political or special interests. It will continue to be democratic in its views.

Mr. Simms, who has been running the Times four years, has not perfected his future plans, but will be in the city for some time, even though he does not decide to remain here ultimately. He states that the sale of the Times obligates him to remain out of the afternoon newspaper field here for ten years. Mr. Simms came here from Charlotte. He has been in the newspaper business ten years.

HIS EAR TORN OFF IN PRINTING PRESS

Spartanburg, Sept. 7.—Mr. Morrisett, pressman of the Spartanburg Journal, lost his left ear in a peculiar accident at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, while the regular edition of the Journal was being run off. He was working underneath the press, when in some manner his ear was caught in the mechanism. Had the press been running faster, it is said, he might have been killed.

Although painfully injured, he did not lose consciousness nor his presence of mind. He was unaware of the extent of his injury, and said to one of those who ran to his aid that his ear was giving him great pain. He asked if it seemed to be badly crushed. He was told the ear was missing.

Mr. Morrisett was taken to the Spartanburg hospital, where he was placed under an anesthetic while Dr. J. H. Allen dressed the wound.

Dr. Allen said last night that Mr. Morrisett would remain at the hospital for several days, but that there was no doubt of his recovery. He can have an artificial ear affixed, and the loss of the natural organ will scarcely be perceptible.

Mr. Morrisett came to Spartanburg not long ago from Greensboro, N. C. He has a wife and two children, who are at present visiting his home at Danville, Va. He intended to bring them here soon.

Mr. Morrisett has been living at No. 156 North Converse street.

SECOND PARDON GRANTED SAMPSON COUNTY OFFENDER

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—O. J. Arnett, of Sampson county, gets a second pardon from a sentence to eight years in the penitentiary for secret assault. The first was from Governor Glenn and the second has just been granted by Governor Kitchin. The first pardon was conditioned on good behavior and sobriety. Some months ago it came to the attention of Governor Kitchin that Arnett was frequently drunk and had been up repeatedly for disorderly conduct. The Glenn pardon was revoked. Now the prisoner has served two months in jail under the revocation. Imprisonment is having a bad effect on his health and the pardon is allowed under more strict conditions as to sobriety.

Air Ship Exploded.

Strasbourg, Germany, Sept. 7.—When his airship exploded 500 feet in the air today Lieut. Neumanns, of the German army, and M. Leconte, a passenger were instantly killed. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

MORE KINKS IN TANGLE OVER FEES OF HEALTH OFFICER

Wake Officials Still Wrangling Over Matter --- Health Board Approves Fees.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—There was another kink yesterday put into the tangle having to do with a county superintendent of health, in Wake county, for Dr. J. J. L. McCullers, once elected to the position at a $2,500 salary, but who declined on the fixing of this salary at $600 by the County Commissioners, later appointed on a fee basis by Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the State Board of Health, the appointment not recognized by the County Commissioners, the case now in court, was elected by the County Board of Health as county superintendent of health on a fee basis.

This action was taken yesterday at a called meeting of the County Board of Health, present being Mayor Jas. L. Johnson, of Raleigh; Dr. G. M. Bell, of Wakefield; Dr. Henry McKee Tucker of Raleigh; County Superintendent of Schools Z. V. Judd. The chairman of the Board of County Johnson, of Raleigh, who is also chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and who had been notified of the meeting, was not present as he was presiding at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners. On the vote in the matter and as to regulations adopted, Prof. Z. V. Judd's vote was the only one cast in opposition.

In the election of Dr. McCullers his compensation was fixed on fees. The law provides that all expenditures shall be approved by the County Commissioners. The County Commissioners heretofore declined to recognize Dr. McCullers as the county superintendent of health, and have so instructed the various county institutions, but a resolution was passed by the County Board of Health, ordering that the County Commissioners, the jailer, and other officials be notified of the election and a penalty of $25 was imposed for interference with the county superintendent of health in the discharge of his duties.

CAPT. McNEILL HAS "NO-TAX" SAMPLES ANALYZED.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Capt. J. D. McNeill, mayor of Fayetteville, was in the city yesterday with samples of "No Tax," labeled as a strictly temperance beverage and as put up in conformity with the pure food act and the prohibition law of North Carolina. Mayor McNeill says this drink is being sold in Fayetteville by the former near-beer dealers and that it has as demoralizing effect as the near-beer and that certainly it is being used as a cloak for blind tiger outlawry. He declares that while he is unalterably opposed to prohibition and believes that it is having a most baneful effect on the morals of a large element of the people in the creation of a disregard for law in general, he proposes to enforce it in his town to his utmost ability. And, especially, he proposes to put a stop to this "No Tax" if there can be any excuse for shutting it out found in the analysis.

WOULDN'T GET BREAKFAST

Husband Gives This Excuse For Leaving Wife.

Baltimore, Sept. 7.—Giving as his reason for leaving his 17-year-old bride that she would not get up in the morning to get his breakfast, Adam Reitschler, 2609 Eastern avenue, was held in $500 bail for the action of the Criminal Court upon the charge of non-support by Justice O'Neill, in the Eastern Police Station, yesterday morning.

Reitschler, who is 22 years old, was married on August 8 of last year. His wife, with tears in her eyes, told how they lived happily together for five months, when her husband suddenly disappeared. Several months later she heard that he was in Pennsylvania, but could not find out where. During the time he was away, Mrs. Reitschler asserted, her husband did not send her any money and that she was forced to stay with her family at 4 North Carey street. Learning several days ago that her husband had returned to this city, Mrs. Reitschler swore out a warrant for his arrest upon the charge of non-support. All the efforts of Justice O'Neill at patching up their family affairs were met with a refusal on the part of the husband.

New Head of the G. A. R. Was With Sherman on His March to the Sea

JUDGE HARVEY M. TRIMBLE of Princeton, Ill., who was elected commander in chief of the G. A. R. at the forty-fifth annual encampment held at Rochester, N. Y., is one of the best known of living Grand Army men. Born in Ohio, he has lived in Illinois since 1848; was a student at Eureka college when he enlisted for the civil war in the Ninety-third Illinois volunteers. He was promoted to the position of sergeant major and in 1864 to adjutant. Except for a period of fourteen days when he was a prisoner of war, he participated in every movement of his regiment, including the Mississippi campaign, the Yazoo Pass expedition, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Missionary Ridge, the march to the sea, the Carolina campaign and finally the grand review at Washington. The regiment lost 418 men in killed and wounded. Judge Trimble has been department commander in Illinois and was president of the Vicksburg park commission. Following his admission to the bar in 1867 he practiced law and served his county and district as county and circuit judge. Judge Trimble favors the Sherman pension bill, which Democratic Leader Underwood has promised congress will pass at the forthcoming session.

FLOODS

In China Cause Fears for Safety of American Missionaries There.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 7.—Great fears are felt for the safety of the American men and women missionaries who are stationed in the Yang Tsiang Valley where the floods have already claimed more than a hundred thousand lives.

THREE ENTERTAINMENTS BEING ARRANGED FOR.

Special to Telegram. Raleigh, Sept. 7.—The entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Wade R. Brown, chairman, is clothed with full authority to arrange for three elaborate entertainments, musical and otherwise to be held in the splendid new auditorium the city is just completing to be held during State Fair week with a view to the formal dedication of the structure to auditorium purposes. There is every assurance that the events will be particularly notable and will demonstrate to the many thousands of fair visitors Raleigh's splendid equipment as a convention city.

LAD KILLED BY ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF GUN

Lacy Hackett Shot by Gaff Smith Near Pomona Yesterday Afternoon.

Lacy Hackett, the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hackett, of Pomona, was accidentally shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by Gaff Smith, also of Pomona. The shooting occurred on the bridge across South Buffalo creek; a short distance from Pomona.

The entire load of shot entered Hackett's head about the mouth and ranged upwards, death being instantaneous. The lad was standing less than five feet from the muzzle when the shell exploded. Al Jones, a companion was standing nearby when the horrible accident occurred and both boys were horrified with fear and filled with sorrow when they saw Hackett was already dead.

The boys had been squirrel hunting and were resting near the bridge. They arose to go home and Smith unbreeched or breeched his gun, a single barrel shot gun, the shell was fired and the load striking Hackett. The gun was partially unbreeched as the shell flew by young Smith's head with terrific force. Sadly they wended their way home and told the pitiful story. Loving hands soon bore the remains of young Hackett to his home, where his parents were almost overcome with grief. Young Smith was a boon companion of Hackett's and he was almost frenzied with grief over the deed.

The remains will be carried to Burlington tomorrow for interment near the old home of the deceased.

Mr. Bryan may be a "dead one," but he draws crowds on the Chautauqua platform like a very live attraction.

Virginia has a Senatorial primary and the Beattie case today. That ought to be sensations enough for a staid old commonwealth like Virginia.

General Reyes is going to find that running for office in Mexico is almost as dangerous as running a revolution in the same country.

For an "off year" in politics this year
has managed to make something of a record, and indications point to the fact that the end of the record is not yet in sight.

As an indication of Senator La Fol-lette's progressiveness, it is noticeable that he is making marked progress in the direction of the Republican nomination for President.

The Greenville Piedmont marvels at the fact that a North Carolina public official resigned his office. Several North Carolina office holders have lately been guilty of such conduct, and it is doubtless regarded in South Carolina as unpardonable. None resign down there.

It is generally acknowledged that Justice Clark is a candidate for United States Senator on a platform which is plain and easily understood. Can the same be truthfully said of all the candidates?

The Greenville Reflector is borrowing trouble. It says: "Almost before you realize it there will be coal bills to pay."
As the populace is still paying the ice man, the Reflector should not have been so thoughtless as to direct attention to the troubles of the future.

Virginia has an election today for the purpose of selecting two United States Senators. Senators Martin and Swanson are being opposed by Congressmen Glass and Jones. The campaign has been the warmest in the history of the State and has been watched with interest outside
the confines of the Old Dominion.

President Taft says that "Senators derive their power from the people." Some of the Senators know the President
is in error, as they derive their power from the "interests." However, the President might profitably consider the source from which the power of a President is supposed to be derived in a Republic.

The Durham Herald calls attention to the fact that road overseers often disregard the law which says sign posts must be erected at road crossings and places where the roads fork. No doubt this law is a dead letter in most of the counties and in all except rare cases. It should be enforced, however, as it is a good law.
Signs are a great convenience to travelers over unfamiliar roads.

Trusts and Fines.

Before the American Bar Association,
Mr. William B. Hornblower, a distinguished member of the New York bar, decried the present tendency of the American people to demand that trust malefactors be imprisoned rather than fined. The Sherman law is too drastic, declared Mr. Hornblower, and he added:
"I do not hesitate to say that the sweeping provisions of this law are unwise
and unjust, and should be made more limited in their scope and much more definite and certain."

If it had not been for David Bennett
Hill, then Senator from New York, Mr.
Hornblower would have been elevated to the Supreme Court in 1893. He was appointed by Mr. Cleveland and missed confirmation by the very narrowest margin.

He must have been laboring ever since
under the delusion that he had been confirmed, else it would be remarkable that he should assume to be more prescient
than a Congress of the United States and a President. Such an assumption is quite natural on the part of a Supreme Court justice.

"Protests," said Mr. Hornblower,
"are even made against mere pecuniary fines." From his viewpoint, that of the corporation attorney, this condition appears monstrous; but the American people, those who are robbed by the corporations instead of being hired by them,
may be excused for taking a different stand.

The fines which are imposed by the Federal judges are so condign. They are also perfectly logical. They run from the twenty-nine million dollar absurdity of Kennesaw Mountain Landis, who might be forgiven for doing anything when his name is remembered, to the wittily sensitive sentence of Archibald, who imposed the awful penalty of $1,700 on the wire trust magnates. They do not exactly run from one of these extremes to the other, they leap. There are few intermediates. The fines are either so impossibly large as to ensure reversal on appeal or they are so small as to excite hilarity.

Every man who owns stock in an industrial corporation is not a lawless
thug. Many of the shareholders, probably a majority of them, have invested in these enterprises with the perfectly proper idea of getting a fair rate of interest
on their money, and believing that such a rate could be earned without any violation of the statutes, either State or national. They would not personally break
the law nor would they personally continue lawbreaking on the part of their trustees. It is not fair to these innocent holders that the corporations should be fined to the point of confiscation as the Standard Oil Company was threatened by the Landis decision, nor is it fair to the general public that the men who have robbed them should escape with the nominal penalty imposed by Archibald.

Mr. Hornblower is doubtless right when he says: "There is a point at which competition becomes the death of trade." He would have no difficulty in securing any number of witnesses to testify that trust competition killed the trade. The competition which is the death of trade is the kind which continues ruthlessly and lawlessly to fight
trade until it kills it. The sugar probe unearthed some glaring evidence in this direction, and a host of formerly independent dealers, who now are clerks or out of business, could testify to the killing methods of the oil magnates and
the methods of the oil moguls.

The penal clause of most of the Federal laws involving trade regulation are nothing but grim jokes. Fourteen years ago, Fred Oppen, then doing some wonderfully effective work in the line of political cartoons, drew a picture of the trusts doing a minstrel act. The interlocutor was pictured as saying: "Brother Standard Oil will now sing his famous song and all will join in the chorus:
"We are butterflies of fashion and we
lead a life of ease,
The public is our lemon—all we've got to do is squeeze."

The public has been squeezed until it is sick of the pressure. It has revolted.
It does not intend to tolerate any further squeezing, notwithstanding all the five-foot-four-inch Hornblowers that tout throughout the world.

The public is waking up. The Wiley case shows that the people are not the senseless clods that the politicians and the Presidents have been thinking they were. With amazing unanimity, newspapers of the most diverse political faiths
rallied to the support of a faithful official. While his conduct was being investigated and the pinhead apology which is called chief of the Department of Agriculture was exhibiting his animosity toward the doctor, an illuminating Pure Food bulletin was issued. It is eloquent on the subject of fines.

A catsup concern in Illinois was fined $10 through the activity of the Bureau of Chemistry. Their offense consisted of selling a stuff which they called "Brace-Up Tomato Tonic." The Bureau discovered that it "consisted in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed and putrid
vegetable substance." An Iowa catsup maker was fined $25 for selling an article described in the same language except that the words "animal or" preceded "vegetable." Adulterators of various foods were fined in Missouri the fearsome amount of $10 each. There were other prosecutions and convictions in that astounding report, the maximum being a penalty of $100 imposed upon a Pennsylvanian for selling "Egg Nutrine,"
which contained no eggs.

None of these gentry, trifling with the health or the lives of thousands that they might gain some dirty dollars—
none of the malefactors was sent to jail.
They do things differently in New York
as some poultry dealers will admit.

Mr. Hornblower may be an excellent trust pleader; but the very qualities
which have enabled him to excel in that line have automatically and surely taken
him out of the range of popular sympathy. David Bennett Hill did splendid service to the land when he kept this worthy out of the Supreme Court.—Norfolk Landmark.

How Harman Has Saved Millions to the People of Ohio.

Judson Harman's fine record as Governor of Ohio in his first term so thoroughly convinced his constituents of his sincerity and ability that in a State usually counted as safely Republican he was re-elected by a plurality of 100,000, an enormous increase from the 19,372 by which he was first chosen. Without any particular flourish of trumpets he set to work to carry out the promise he made in his campaign. His first object was to cut out graft and introduce economy in the State government.

How well he has succeeded in the face of manifold difficulties is shown by a statement just issued setting forth that he has saved Ohio $23,774,222. Of this $10,000,000 is attributed to prohibition of false weights and measures by which consumers were cheated and $6,500,000
to the veto of an extra levy for road improvements. He estimates that $4, 000,000 was saved by the law fixing tax
at 1 per cent; $1,000,000 taxes collected from tax-dodging domestic corporations, and $1,000,000 saved to farmers by prohibiting sale of fraudulent fertilizers. The nineteen boards of trustees of State institutions have been consolidated into one board, saving $500,000;
264 useless county infirmaries directors
have been legislated out of office, saving $275,000; legislative sessions made biennial instead of annual, saving $300,000;
competitive bidding for State bank deposits, increased interest $66,000; limiting county officers' clerk hire, $50,000,
and reduction of salaries of State employees $26,698. Heads of bureaus have followed the example of their chief, the oil and engineer inspectors, labor commissioner and State printer cutting down expenses materially. In the State prison
the "Golden Rule" system has been instituted and operating expenses reduced $30,000.

The expenditures of the Federal government have passed all reasonable bounds. Appropriations of more than $1,000,000,000 a year impose on the taxpayers too heavy a burden. If they secured an adequate return for their money
in permanent improvements, there would be no protest, but politics, bad business
methods and graft must account for millions. Ex-Senator Aldrich himself admits that $800,000,000 a year could be saved and the efficiency of the service improved. Governor Harman's supporters point to his record in Ohio, and contend that he could save hundreds of millions
if he were placed at the head of the Federal government. No matter who the candidate is, "economy" will constitute an important plank in the Democratic platform. Supported by a Congress with its face set against extravagance, a Democratic President could save the taxpayers of this country an immense sum by simply putting the Government service
on a business basis and cutting out unnecessary offices and appropriations.—

SPACE-SAVING COLLAPSIBLES.

For Traveler, Camper and Autoist Inventions Are For Sale.

It is not so long ago that the only col-
lapsible thing was a man's opera hat,
and even that excited wonder in a small community; now everything is provided with a collapsible form, and mighty convenient it is.

The change is due to globe trotting;
but, whatever the cause, the results are worth studying.

For the camper there is the stove that collapses, fits into a case, and good cooking is possible in the wilderness. Many cooking utensils, too, fold up and can be stowed into small space for open life.

The autoist has a goodly store of col-
lapsiblees, beginning with the portable
garage, which is sold ready to put up
and can be easily taken down, packed away or moved to another place. There are trunks and baskets which are flat
when not in use, collapsible parasols,
and now a collapsible hat that opens into smart headgear when the destination is reached.

For outdoor life there are collapsible
desks and tea tables that can be easily moved from one part of the grounds to the other, a marquee tent that folds into small compass and pergolas that come in sections—even the very house itself.

For the ordinary tourist the collapsible
are no longer limited to drinking cups.
Trunks flatten out and can be stowed
under a bed, traveling bags collapse and can be packed in trunk when not needed,
umbrellas and parasols fold into suitcase
sizes and there are all kinds of toilet appliances and water-heating arrangements that flatten into packing proportions.

The hugest paper box flattens into no
more than the double thickness of cardboard when not in use; card tables fold
into the least possible space or there are
nests of all sizes and shapes.

Pillows and mattresses for traveling can be blown up for use and packed in a flat case otherwise, and very convenient is an air pillow in gay rubber case
for the traveler.

A mother need no longer push a heavy
coach or drag her baby in her arms
when going from home. There is a collapsible carriage that shuts with one movement into a compact parcel.

There might even be called collapsible
food, as the compressed foods and tablets and dried milk come under that classification.—New York Sun.

TO POLE BY MONOPLANE.

Machine Which Will Make Final Dash for Farthest South is Ready.

Lieutenant Watkins, who is to accompany Dr. Douglas Mawson's expedition in quest of the South Pole, and who is to attempt a final dash to the pole by monoplane, has just packed up his machine
and shipped it to Australia.

Lieutenant Watkins is a well-known aviator at Brooklands, who learned to fly on a Howard-Wright biplane, but the ma chine on which he is to try to fly to the pole is British make, the work of Messrs. Vickers & Co. The R. E. P., as it is called, has made several speed records,
and it is the only type of machine which came through the circuit of Europe without having to undergo repairs or renew-
als. Its wings have square-cut corners, the body resembles a slender skiff and
towards the rear extremity carries a vertical planer for purposes of stability and
a horizontal plane like the tail of a bird.

The primary plan of the expedition is not to use the monoplane only for the dash to the South Pole, but to use it for connoitering the ice hummocks and barriers encountered. It is, therefore, so constructed that it can become a motor sleigh or an aeroplane by turns. The only motor sleigh which has previously been made to compete with the same kind of conditions is one which is in the possession of a Russian grand duke who employs it for traversing steppes.

The monoplane is the first which has been constructed to pull loads or go over the ground in an emergency. Its frame is made entirely of steel tubes, and it carries a 90-kilometer, 60-horse power R.
E. P. motor, with fuel enough for six hours. This kind of motor was used by M. Gilbert in the circuit of Europe and remained unchanged throughout the flight. The machine is 45 feet wide by 37 feet long.

When the monoplane is to become a motor sleigh it is fitted with considerably longer skids, which are painted with phosphor-bronze, for the prevention of rust. The motor would act in the same manner as in an aeroplane, but with the diminished power needed. The wings then detach and slide into a cradle
within the body, overlapping the edges of the body, so that the appearance of the machine becomes almost like that of a moth with folded wings. The tail piece is also taken off, and a steering skate fastened below the tail in the place
of the present steering part.

The body is constructed so that a passenger can be carried, the seat being in front of the pilot. The expedition is to take place in the Antarctic summer,
so that conditions of freezing have not to be so seriously considered. The steel is, however, heavily tinned and the motor is air cooled. If temperature were to necessitate the precaution, the tanks
would be covered in jackets of thick felt.
The facilities for reconnoitering are increased by the holes cut in the wings
after the manner of Antoinette machines.—Boston Transcript.

BEAR HOLDS UP U. S. MAIL.

Rural Delivery Man Stopped By Mother
of Two Cubs.

A mother bear with a Bat Nelson battle gleam in her eye and an Ad Wolgast
fighting crouch and her two little cubs
held up Uncle Sam's mail in the road between Sandy and Marmot and gave C.
M. Bailey, rural mail carrier on the route of time of his life, when he accepted her challenge, says the Morning Oregonian.

Bailey was driving leisurely along toward Sandy in his mail wagon behind his two sturdy horses, when the bear popped into sight as he rounded a curve.
She was standing on her haunches in the middle of the road in a distinctly beligerent attitude, her cubs frisking about her. Bailey was so surprised that he pulled up his horses and waited for developments.

He didn't have to wait very long.
With a growl and a flourish of his fore-
paws the bear made for the mail carrier,
the cubs waddling along after her on all-fours. Bailey's horses snorted in terror
at this unexpected move by Mother Bruin and whirled about in the road so sharply that the wagon was upset and mail and mail carrier spilled out in the dust.

As Bailey picked himself up he pulled his automatic revolver out of his pocket
and fired at the bear, which was almost on him. The bullet went true, and she rolled over in the road, snarling and clawing. She seemed to have enough of battle, for the next minute she picked herself up and went off into the woods
with the cubs, leaving a trail of blood
behind her.

As soon as the shaken Bailey could collect himself he caught his horses, which had stopped running a short distance down the road, and with the aid of a party of autoists that came along soon
after he righted his wagon and hitched
up.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN SURELY PUTS THE STOMACH IN ORDER

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble,
why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested
food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds
that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake.
Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach
poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poison
the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

Forced to Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way.
Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you
at home. "It cured me of lung trouble,"
writes W. R. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark.,
"when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight. Its surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's

A Great Advantage to Working Men

J. A. Maples, 125 S. 7th St., Steubenville, O., says: "For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had
as good results as any I heard about.
My backache left me and to one of business, expressman; that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise." Howard Gardner.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Greensboro Readers Know
What It Means.

The Kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, hip pains, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, dropsy, Bright's disease follow.

The statement below shows you what
to do.

Mrs. Arthur Causey, Jerusalem St., Randleman, N. C., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them excellent in every way. Backache clung to me a long time and made it difficult for me to stoop. I could not remain on my feet for any length of time and often
I became so dizzy that I had to catch hold of something to keep from falling. The kidney secretions annoyed me and showed that my kidneys were disordered. When a friend strongly urged me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was soon entirely rid of kidney complaint."

BRONZE STATUE ERECTED IN MEMORY OF EDWIN STANTON

Ceremonies Attending the Unveiling Today Participated in by President Taft and Army Officers--Stanton Served in Cabinets of Three Presidents.

Special to Telegram.

Staubenville, Ohio, Sept. 7.—Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War under President Lincoln during the Civil War, who held perhaps the most trying position of all during those troublous times, was honored today by the unveiling of a bronze statue that will perpetuate his features for all time.

President Taft, Governor Judson Harmon, Major General Frederick D. Grant, General Daniel E. Sickles, Judge William R. Day, and the sons of the war President and the war Secretary, Robert T. Lincoln and Lewis H. Stanton, were among those who participated in the ceremonies, which formed the principal event of Stanton Memorial Week.

Some 15,000 persons were assembled outside the court house, in front of which the monument stands. It is of bronze, seven feet high, and rests on a granite pedestal eight feet high. It is the work of Sculptor Alexander Doyle of New York, a former resident of Staubenville.

The day's program began with a military parade participated in by United States Regulars and the Ohio National Guard. Water sports on the Ohio river, including swimming, sculling, and motorboat races, a balloon ascension and exhibition flights by members of the team of the Wright brothers, natives of Ohio, followed, and the unveiling of the Stanton memorial statue took place in the afternoon. A fireworks display tonight, followed by a grand military ball, participated in by all the dignitaries gathered there, will conclude the day's events.

After the unveiling of the Stanton monument, it was formally accepted by Attorney Carl Smith in behalf of the county.

The man honored by the memorial, Edwin McMasters Stanton, had one of the most unique public careers of any man in the history of the country. He was appointed to the Cabinets of three Presidents—Buchanan, Lincoln and Johnson—and was appointed by a fourth, Grant, to the position of associate justice of the Supreme court. He was one of the chief figures in the famous impeachment case against President Andrew Johnson.

Born at Staubenville, of Quaker parentage, on December 19, 1819, he was educated at Kenyon college, where he later studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1836, beginning practice at Cadiz, Ohio, where he became prosecuting attorney a year later. He then practiced in Staubenville and in Pittsburg and, in 1856, removed to Washington, where he took up pleading before the United States Supreme Court.

He was appointed attorney general by President Buchanan at the time of the reorganization of Buchanan's Cabinet in 1860, succeeding Jeremiah Black. Originally a Jacksonian Democrat, he became a staunch anti-slavery advocate. In 1861, upon the election of President Lincoln, he retired with the rest of the Cabinet, but was immediately presented by Lincoln with the portfolio of War Secretary. The integrity, judgment, determination and force of his administration during the Civil War made him a popular figure among many, but he also had enemies who criticized him.

After the assassination of President Lincoln, he tendered his resignation, but was induced by President Andrew Johnson to remain in the Cabinet. During the famous breach between the President and Congress, he took sides against the President, who then called for his resignation on August 5, 1867. He refused to withdraw, saying it would interfere with the Reconstruction Acts, to which President Johnson was opposed. A week later Johnson suspended him, but he again refused to withdraw. The President then removed him in spite of the Tenure of Office Act and appointed Secretary Ad Interim. Still he refused to give up his office and held it until after the impeachment and acquittal of Johnson, when he resigned.

He resumed the practice of law, but his health began to wane. On December 20, 1869, President Grant nominated him an associate justice of the Supreme Court and the appointment was immediately confirmed by the Senate. Before he could formally accept the appointment, he died, four days later.

The significance of the gathering of distinguished men who did honor to his name today bore ample testimony to the esteem in which he was held by the leaders of the country during his life. It was the first time in history that the sons of the President, the General and the Secretary of War who fought for the preservation of the Union had been together at a public function. And, in addition, the present chief executive, the governor of his home State, a Justice of the Supreme Court and the only surviving general of the War—truly a fitting tribute to a man who devoted his life work to his country's welfare.

"I've evolved a splendid idea," said a Reno lawyer.

"Let's have it," replied his partner.

HILL'S FRIENDS STILL THINK HE WAS FORCED TO RETIRE

Despite Denials They Believe He was Told to Resign or Given an Intimation That He was to be Transferred to Smaller Post.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Despite denials, explanations and deep mystery, friends of Dr. David Jayne Hill continue to believe firmly that he was forced to retire from the diplomatic service. They think his resignation was either requested or an intimation given that he would be transferred to a less prominent post than Berlin. Rather than submit to such a humiliation, Dr. Hill would naturally resign.

The friends of Dr. Hill also attribute his retirement entirely to the influence and desires of Secretary Knox, who has been repeatedly sustained and lauded by President Taft. It is realized that Knox sought the promotion for his friend, Ambassador Leishman, as a stepping-stone to London.

Leishman just a Drummer. Among those who know Dr. Hill and are also acquainted with Secretary Knox's methods and his determination to give John G. A. Leishman the best there is in the diplomatic service, the retirement of Dr. Hill from the Berlin embassy is regarded as a triumph of commercial diplomacy and favoritism over scholarly brilliancy.

Leishman will help American concerns get contracts. Dr. Hill could not, even if he would, go as far in helping along a commercial enterprise as Leishman, because he has not the business training.

Leishman knows everything about business from selling a yard of linen to a battleship, his business experience beginning with that of a linen salesman and ending as president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Wormy Figs Price of Honor. A few years ago the American Embassy at Constantinople was raised from a mission to an embassy through Knox's efforts, while he was Senator, against the wishes of the Sultan.

The ambassador backed up a protest from the Turkish government against a ruling by the Secretary of Agriculture that figs, 20 per cent of which were worm-eaten, were unfit for food, and, therefore, not to be admitted through the customs houses of the United States. The result was that the percentage was increased. The prime mover in the protest was a railroad in Asia Minor, which had bought some of its rails and equipment in this country.

The statement given out by Dr. Hill was read by his friends as a veiled thrust at the persons used by Secretary Knox in making Dr. Hill's position at Berlin untenable and thereby opening the way for Leishman. Wherever the Knox personal influence is strongest, there the hardest "knocking" of Dr. Hill was to be found.

Dropped by Carnegie. Ambassador Leishman was president of the Carnegie Steel Company while Secretary Knox was of counsel for that concern, if not its chief attorney. The friendship between them, rather than any between Knox and Andrew Carnegie, is regarded as one of the chief reasons for Knox's employment as legal adviser for the steel company.

When Andrew Carnegie came to the conclusion that Leishman had been "done up" in a pig iron deal by "Bet-you-a-million" Gates, the present ambassador was called into the iron master's private room and told that his money would be waiting for him at the office as soon as he could get there. Leishman was then, according to the Pittsburgh view, "down and out."

Knox helped him get into the diplomatic service, the Turkish mission, being the best that could be secured for him. Leishman not having the strength to pull an ambassadorship from the portfolio while Roosevelt was President, Knox obligingly had the Constantinople

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. legation raised to an embassy.

First Jump Was to Rome.

The legation could have been raised to an embassy had he been strong enough with Abdul Hamid to induce that now fallen monarch to intimate to this government that he wanted to increase the rank of his representative here by making him an Ambassador. But Abdul would not listen to the suggestion, so Knox did the unusual thing of passing a law making the American legation an embassy whether Abdul liked it or not.

When Knox became Secretary of State Leishman was sent to Rome, and now he is on his way to Berlin. His next step will be to London, Whitelaw Reid having been held in place by Knox so as to make it easier to promote Leishman from Berlin to London than from Rome to London.

SUPERSTITION IN ITALY IS SPREADING CHOLERA

Ignorant Folk Combat Sanitary Methods Taken by Government.

Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 7.—Since the beginning of the recent year the total number of deaths from cholera in Italy has passed the 30,000 mark. Terror and superstition are causing outbreaks of violence among the inhabitants who consider the authorities responsible for the scourge.

Health measures are opposed by the people, who think that the laws have been put into effect for the purpose of spreading the infection, firmly believing that it is the desire of the authorities to kill, through poison, a large number of the population, and in that way get rid of the poor.

The most energetic measures have been adopted by the Italian government to maintain order.

GUIANA NATIVES SLAY AMERICAN MISSIONARY.

Murdered on Visit to Indians, Where No White Man Had Ever Been.

Georgetown, British Guiana, Sept. 7.—The Rev. O. E. Davis, superintendent of the British Guiana mission of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, the headquarters of which are at Washington, D. C., has been murdered in the interior during the second or third week in July while proselytizing among the natives.

Early in May, Mr. Davis received a call to visit some Indians, about a two months' journey up the Demerara river, where no white man had ever been. This was the last heard from the minister. At the conclusion of this trip he expected to return to the United States to study medicine.

Mr. Davis was about 32 years of age and married, his wife accompanying him. He is from Washington State and has been in charge of the British Guiana mission for about five years.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

In the matter of S. J. Kaufman, Bankrupt.

NOTICE.

By virtue and under the authority of an order signed by his Honor, Judge James E. Boyd, United States Judge, on the 29th day of August, 1911, in the above entitled matter, I, as Receiver of said estate, duly appointed by said Court, advertise and offer for sale the entire stock of shoes and store fixtures, belonging to S. J. Kaufman, bankrupt, and now in the store formerly occupied by the said S. J. Kaufman on South Elm street in the Hotel Guilford Building, City of Greensboro. This stock has been inventoried at over $5,000.00. The appraisers' report may be seen by any prospective bidder by calling at the office of the undersigned in the Greensboro Loan & Trust building.

All persons bidding on this stock will be required to deposit with their bid cash or certified check amounting to 10 per cent of their bid; said 10 per cent to be paid as good faith money. All bids will be subject to the action of the creditors meeting to be held on September 8th, 1911, at 11:00 o'clock A. M. before G. S. Ferguson, Referee, Greensboro, North Carolina. The creditors, by the order above referred to, will have the right to reject any and all bids and advertise the property for sale again in their discretion they deem it best. August 29th, 1911.

ATTRACTIVE NEW HOMES.

R. C. Hood, Secretary and Manager of the North Carolina Trust Company, is just finishing up four of the most attractive houses in Greensboro on Magnolia Court, near North Elm street, at Fisher Park. The streets and yards will be graded in a few days and shrubbery planted in the court when the weather will permit.

These houses are unique in design and finished with hardwood floors, built-in book-cases, china closets, nooks and window seats. They contain high grade steam heating plants which also furnish abundant hot water night and day for kitchen and bath room. Gas ranges are to be installed in the bright, airy kitchens and each house contains a breakfast room in addition to the main dining room.

The material used in construction is of highest quality and all floors are doubled and the houses will last almost indefinitely and meanwhile be comfortable all over as the heating plant which is modern and inexpensive to maintain, reaches every room and hall way so that the occupant has the use of the whole house during cold weather. There are closets galore, everywhere, big ones.

The houses are for sale at reasonable prices on easy terms and as Mr. Hood says, they are good houses for good people. Sept. 4, 6t.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM
New Orleans, La., Sept. 8.—Liverpool shows firmness in futures and increased activity in spots, of which sales amounted to 12,000, at ten point higher quotations. Our correspondents cable: "Doing a large profitable business but if American trade is still bad we look for lower prices. Some improvement, however, is reported in American trade. We consider this information very important."

The may this morning shows generally fair hot weather in the western states. Partly cloudy to fair weather prevailed in the Central State, but there was little precipitation in the central belt over night. Indications are for showery cooler weather for the entire northern half of the belt, a cool wave being drawn southward by the South Atlantic disturbance.

Political news was better, Paris cabling that political difficulties have been overcome.

Our market advanced in the first hour to 11:50 for December on a rather active demand for contracts based on the improved political news and spot firmness. Later on, speculative selling in anticipation of large census figures tomorrow on ginning caused a reaction of 18 points. Owing to the long drought, forcing weather and premature opening in the Southern half of Texas, ginnings to September 1, are very large. The trade is prepared for an amount in excess of all previous records.

WILL COLLECT FOR PAVING ELM STREET

At this afternoon's meeting of the Board of Commissioners an ordinance authorizing Mayor Murphy to levy on the property owners along Elm street for the cost of putting down the vitrified brick pavement was passed and the levy will be made at once. The pavement was put down at a cost of something over $2 per square yard and the property owners on each side of the street are required to pay one-fourth of the cost. The amount to be levied is something like $20,000.

HARD TIMES FOR DOCTORS Their Fees Were Small in Babylon and Failure to Cure Meant Torture.

Babylonian surgeons four thousand years ago had not the easy time of their modern colleagues. The French archaeological commission has just discovered there a tablet containing some interesting facts about the Babylonian Bob Sawyer. For all operations "performed with a knife" patients were to pay twelve silver shekels, which is about $3.75 of American money. A broken leg or arm must be set for $2, and teeth were drawn at the uniform rate of seventy-five cents.

All the same, this must have been pretty good pay for the time, because the tablet in question goes on to enumerate the punishment meted out to surgeons who made professional mistakes. These would appeal even less to the modern medical man than the low fees.

When an operation caused the death of a patient the unfortunate surgeon had both his hands cut off; and when he did not cure his patient in reasonably quick time, the tablet tells us that his fee was confiscated by the government. It does not mention what was considered a reasonable time for healing.

Medical Society Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Guilford County Medical Society is being held this afternoon, beginning at three o'clock. A large number of the physicians of the county are in attendance.

Not Seriously Hurt.

While engaged in working with a transformer yesterday afternoon E. A. Brown and Will Deaver, linemen for the Public Service Company suffered a fall of 20 feet to the ground, the accident being caused by the pole breaking. The young men were skinned up considerably and at first it was thought they were seriously hurt. They were rushed to the hospital for treatment. Deaver suffered a fracture in the knee and will be kept indoors several days. Brown was on the street this afternoon.

A Sanitary Closet.

Commissioner of Public Safety Brown has on display in the rear of the city hall a sanitary surface closet, such as persons not having sewer connections will be required to use. The closet is complete. There is a floor covering the entire bottom and the ventilation outlets are screened to prevent flies from coming in. In this closet three buckets are arranged. Commissioner Brown stated that the closet can be put up for little more expense than an ordinary closet and old closets can be remodeled easily to conform with the requirements.

Died While Making Coffin.

Under curious circumstances a man named Ryan died at Dublin a few days ago. While making a coffin he suddenly expired and was found lying under a long board which was intended to be the coffin lid.

MRS. B. G. HOLLINGSWORTH DIED THIS MORNING. Special to Telegram.

Fayetteville, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Royall Hollingsworth, wife of B. G. Hollingsworth, died at her home here this morning just one year after the burial of her eldest son, Maj. J. G. Hollingsworth, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident on a turnpike near Richmond, Va., September 1, 1910. Since the tragic event her health has steadily declined. Mrs. Hollingsworth was born in Sampson county August 25, 1844, and was therefore 67 years old. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. W. B. Ledbetter and Alfred M. Hollingsworth, and eight grandchildren all of whom reside in this city. She was a woman of excellent qualities whose passing is mourned by a large circle of friends.

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT Liver Medicine

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine, for constipation, indigestion and liver trouble, is firmly established. It does not irritate other medicines. It is better than others, or it would not be the favorite liver powder, with a larger sale than all others combined.

HIT BATSMAN; NO MORE GOOD

Haunted by the ghost of the man he killed with a fast ball, Casey Hagerman, bought from the Denver club by the Boston Red Sox, is afraid to let himself out for fear he will kill another.

It took Hagerman more than a year to regain his nerve. Then he hit another with a pitched ball and lost his nerve again.

It was in the last game of the Central league's 1909 season that Hagerman killed a player. Hagerman was pitching for Grand Rapids. He was wild and one of the batsmen failed to get away from the ball. He was hit over the heart, and never knew what struck him, for he dropped dead.

Hagerman would have retired from baseball but for Manager Jack Hendricks. The latter became manager of the Denver team last season and he signed Hagerman. All last year Hagerman was afraid to put a fast ball near the plate. It was not until the middle of this season that he regained his nerve. Then he became a terror to Western league batsmen, striking out man after man. President Taylor, of the Red Sox bought him for $5,000.

Before Hagerman joined the new team he had the misfortune to hit Stem of Sioux City. It was believed Stem would die, but he recovered.

Hagerman's nerve was gone for the second time. Again he was afraid to pitch a fast ball. The result was that he lost his effectiveness and was "hampered all over the lot."

FEAR WAR IN NICARAGUA.

Alleged Conspirators Taken in Irons on Gunboat to Interior. Bluefields, Nicaragua, Aug. 31, (via New Orleans, Sept. 7.)—Because of alleged political activity Carlos Bravo, editor of El Riarlo de Bluefields, his brother and Santos Abella, a former official of the customs house, were imprisoned yesterday. Today they were placed in irons and sent to the interior aboard the government gunboat San Jacinto. Other Spanish residents of Bluefields are said to be involved and additional arrests are expected.

Another evidence of the internal disturbance which has been expected to break at almost any moment is shown in a clash between President Diaz and Governor Leopoldo Rosales of Bluefields. President Diaz, it is said, asked for Governor Rosales' resignation and the latter emphatically declined to vacate the office.

TOURING CAR TURNS TURTLE; FIVE INJURED.

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, Sept. 7.—A new five passenger "E. M. F." touring car belonging to Mr. R. H. Brady turned turtle on the Castle Haynes road four miles from this city about 7 o'clock last evening, seriously injuring Mrs. Sarah H. Burris, of this city, and severely bruising Misses Ella and Roberta Brady, daughters of the owner of the car, Mrs. John Hewett, another member of the party, and Willie Smith, the chauffeur.

Mrs. Burris, who is the aunt of Mrs. Brady, and is about 70 years of age, sustained a fracture of the left arm, a fracture of the right shoulder and a fracture of the left leg, while Mrs. Hewett and the Misses Brady were all more or less severely cut and bruised. The chauffeur, who was thrown through the glass wind shield, sustained a number of cuts and scratches around the face and head.

Physicians were rushed to the scene of the accident from here and did all in their power to ease the suffering of the injured until they could be brought to the city. The ambulance was sent out and Mrs. Burris was brought to the James Walker Memorial Hospital here, where she was said to be resting remarkably well last night, considering her age and the extent of her injuries. Mrs. Hewett and the Misses Brady were brought to their homes in automobiles, and the chauffeur came on to the city in the car that turned over, as it was only slightly damaged.

When the car turned over all four wheels were in the air and it was resting on the top and the mud guards. Mrs. Burris was caught under the mud guards, and Mrs. Hewett and Miss Brady were also caught under the car. The two latter managed to crawl out before the machine was righted, but the car had to be lifted off Mrs. Burris. Smith was thrown through the wind shield and had his face cut and scratched by the broken glass.

The injured were taken to the home of Mr. Chadwick, only a short distance from the scene of the accident, and medical aid was summoned from the city. In the meantime a Miss Brady, who is a trained nurse and who was only about an eighth of a mile away, came to Mr. Chadwick's house and did all she could to alleviate the suffering of Mrs. Burris and the other members of the party.

Danderine

Stops Falling Hair and Destroys Dandruff

Makes the Hair Grow Long, Heavy and Luxuriant and We Can Quickly Prove It

If You Wish to Double the Beauty of Your Hair at Once, Just Get a 25 Cent Bottle and Try This

Surely try a Danderine Hair Cleanse if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair with little trouble and at a cost not worth mentioning—just moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

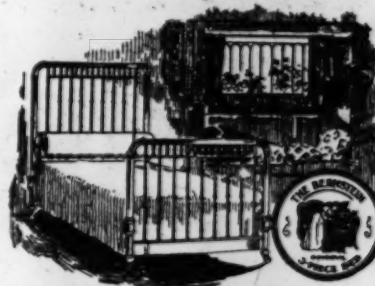

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

The Squirrel Season.

There has been some dispute as to the time when certain game seasons expired, especially in regard to squirrels, and this information is correctly given for the benefit of the misinformed.

The law limiting the time in which squirrels can be killed provides that the season shall open on August 1 and close on February 1. During August, September, October, November, December and January squirrels can be killed in Guilford county.

DEPARTMENT STORE GREENSBORO, N. C.

75 PER CENT. OF THE BIG ADVERTISERS OF AMERICA PREFER EVENING NEWSPAPERS

Out of 400 Large Department Stores 302 say they Prefer Evening Papers and Give Reasons Why

(FROM THE LOS ANGELES RECORD)

OUT of 400 letters sent to the large Department Stores of America asking which they considered a better medium for advertising, a morning or an evening daily newspaper, 392 replied. Of these replies 302 stated they preferred the evening newspaper for advertising; 26 stated they gave the evening paper first copy when they used an evening and a morning paper. As the Department Stores are always the largest advertisers in their respective cities and are in a position to see where the results come from, their opinions, formed from experience, are most valuable. They all speak most emphatically of the advantages of the evening paper over the morning paper for advertising. Of these 302 advertisers who prefer the evening paper a large number of them use the evening paper exclusively and find the returns most profitable.

THE following statements made by the different large firms of America show why they prefer the evening paper over the morning paper:

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The evening paper is best, as it is the one that gets into the homes and stays there. Men carry the morning paper downtown on their way to work in most cases.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—The evening paper undoubtedly is the best advertising medium, because it most surely gets into the very hands toward which all department store advertising is intended—the women of the house—and because then there is plenty of time to read, plan and digest.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We spend $325,000 a year and 75 per cent of it is in the evening papers and 25 per cent in Sunday papers. Even with our great morning papers we cannot make them pay, though the experimenting has cost us $100,000.—Siegel, Cooper & Co.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—We prefer the evening paper for advertising because the housekeeper, business man and working man have more time to go through the paper in detail after the day's work is over and have time to plan their next day's shopping. Our experience is that we get quicker and more direct results from the evening paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker.

BOSTON, MASS.—We consider the evening paper the best medium, because it is taken home and the women get to see it.—Henry Siegel Company.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—We consider the evening newspaper better, because we cater to the working people, and they are employed from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and their only leisure time is in the evening, and they invariably take only evening papers, and have more time to read advertisements.—Cline Bros.

ALBANY, N. Y.—We consider the evening newspaper a better medium for advertising, because women have more time and better opportunity to read the evening papers.—Waldman Bros.

AKRON, OHIO.—We consider an evening paper a superior medium. The evening paper goes direct to the homes and is more thoroughly read. It is read by men after business duties are through for the day and they are more liable to remember the advertising. The morning paper is used by office men.—C. H. Leager & Co.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—We consider the evening paper the best advertising medium, as the average woman does not take time to read a paper until her work is done.—Ed Schuster & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—We prefer the evening paper.—Partridge & Blackwell.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—Best results from evening newspapers. The only time I use a morning paper is Sunday for Monday's business. Balance of the week the evening papers do the work to my entire satisfaction.—The Fair.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We use afternoon papers exclusively during the week. Morning papers on Sunday only.—John C. Lewis Company.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—For advertisements containing items of special prominence likely to produce a rush, the evening newspaper serves as a better advertising medium, first, because people as a rule, have more time to read an evening paper thoroughly and note the contents thereof; second, it gives an opportunity to shoppers to select what items they contemplate purchasing and allows them time to prepare a program for the next day's shopping.—Burgin Dry Goods Company.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We prefer the evening paper week days and the morning paper Sundays only, because the evening paper is brought to the home by the member of the family who goes to business and buys and reads the paper on his way home. The Sunday paper is delivered at the home and read in the home.—Price & Rosenbaum.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We consider the evening paper the better medium for advertising, mainly because the evening paper goes into the home and stays there when there is time for the whole family to read and consider.—Frederick Losser & Co.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—We have always given the evening paper the preference. We spend $40,000 a year for advertising and this all goes into newspapers. We use no other medium of any kind, as we consider ANYTHING OUTSIDE OF THE NEWSPAPER as money wasted.—W. H. Elsing & Co.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—We consider the evening paper better as a general thing, for it is usually the home paper.—Caldwell, McAuliffe — Troup Co.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The evening paper is, in our opinion, most profitable for advertising.—The Wm. H. Block Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—We do most of our advertising in the evening paper.—Wm. Heener Co.

BOSTON, MASS.—We prefer the evening paper by all means, because it goes into the homes directly, while the morning paper has a tendency to work back into the business section and does not reach the homes in such relative number as the evening paper.—Houghton & Dutton.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Where I've been, almost without exception, the evening paper is the best medium.—W. H. Milligan, Advertising Manager Field, Schlick & Co.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The evening paper by all means.—The Bailey Company.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—It is our opinion that the evening paper is better, as the shopper is prepared to sally forth the next morning.—Penny & Gentles.

THE GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP QUESTION IS MUCH DISCUSSED

Idea was Ridiculed Few Years ago but now Matter is Receiving Serious Consideration in Halls of Congress—Fight will be Waged in Next Congress.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)
Washington, Sept. 7.—The old saying that "time alters all things" is substantiated by the great amount of interest that is being manifested, and the discussion that is arising from the question of government ownership and operation of public utilities. It is coming to be considered so constantly and so seriously that it no longer excites comment. It has been but a few years since a person advocating such an idea was hooted at and ridiculed. Today it is entirely different. Some recognized leaders of both the great political parties are supporters of government ownership, operation, and development of public utilities. So important has the question become that it may be incorporated in the party platforms in the coming campaign.

During the last two sessions of Congress bills have been introduced looking to government ownership of mines, railroads, express companies, steamship lines and other industries classed as public service concerns. These bills are no longer completely ignored by Congress, but are seriously considered. The consideration which they have received in the past will not compare with the attention that they are destined to receive. Much of the next session of Congress will be occupied with the settlement of the question in Alaska.

Ex-President Roosevelt has stamped with his approval any measure toward reserving to government control the natural resources of Alaska. He is also a believer in the idea of government ownership and development of transportation in Alaska. Large interests have already acquired a footing in the coal lands of the territory and if the government is to save them it cannot delay. That the government intends to try and retain control of the coal lands is evidenced by the decision of the Department of Interior in the famous Cunningham case. By this decision, annulling the title of the holders to coal lands, extensive areas in the richest portions of the coal fields valued at hundreds of millions of dollars reverted to the government.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, true to his name of "Fighting Bob," has seized upon ex-President Roosevelt's idea and has taken a step farther in the same direction. He introduced in the last session of Congress and will again early in the next session re-introduce his bill promoting government ownership and operation of public utilities in Alaska. Senator La Follette is probably the bitterest

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA. ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer a moment longer with Eczema, or any form of skin or blood troubles. Don't scratch or rub the skin. Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 50c bottle will cure the most prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To beautify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Jarst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." enemy that the great industrial corporations have in the United States Senate. He will leave no stone unturned to shut off this great avenue of wealth to them. The Senator in a speech in the Senate at the last session of Congress declared the vast wealth of Alaska belonged to the people of the United States and not to a few rich men who would try to combine their great wealth to gain control of Alaska, that they might grow more powerful, and work greater hardships upon the people. It would be criminal on the part of Congress not to take steps to reserve these vast natural resources to the people.

The great Northwest is intensely interested in what the government will do in the Alaskan question. Senator Poinsett of Washington, is another member of Congress who is pressing a bill for the conservation of Alaskan resources in Congress. His bill is along the same general line as Senator La Follette's, and only differs from it in minor details. The bill provides that the government shall open and operate a great coal mine to provide coal for the navy, that it shall take over and develop the railroads, and that it shall own and operate a line of steamships to Alaska.

Another evidence of the magnitude which this question of government ownership and regulation of public utilities has assumed is in the numerous plans advocated for government ownership of all transportation facilities across the Panama Canal Zone. It is also proposed that the government own and operate a line of fast steamships to Panama. Senator Cummins, of Iowa, is sponsor for this idea. He wants all steamers in the Panama Canal trade in government hands in order to assure that that route will never fall under the domination of interests allied with transcontinental railroads. In time of war he would make the vessels of the government fleet auxiliaries to the navy. Senator Weeks of California, is backing a similar piece of legislation.

Representative Norris of Nebraska, has given particular attention to the Panama railroad and its functions. The Panama railroad is a corporation owned by the government. It has all the powers and the limitations of any other corporation, but the stock is owned by the government.

It furnished a good illustration of what a railroad can do to develop a community. The corporation conducts the railroad, builds towns, operates streets, builds and runs hotels and hospitals, and has made sanitation on the canal no longer a theory.

the experiments by the Panama railroad that Mr. Norris thinks the Panama railroad company a model for a government-owned corporation to control Alaska's public utilities. He believes that a corporation with proper powers, and financed by the United States Treasury, could take over the railroads now in existence in Alaska and build new ones as needed, could operate steamship lines, develop mines, and sell their product, build and manage towns of industrial centers just as the Panama railroad does.

There can be little doubt that a bitter fight between the "interests" and the men who want government ownership of public utilities will be waged in the next session of Congress.

BIG RIVER BURYING ITSELF.

Mining Man Finds the Colorado in an Underground Channel.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 7.—That the Colorado river has buried itself in an underground channel two miles south of Yuma, was the statement of William Cranston, a mining man who arrived here last night from that point.

Cranston said that the mouth of the channel had not been discovered, and it was feared by residents of that section that the water was finding its way into Salton Sea.

MAKING CHOCOLATE CREAMS.

Mechanical Contrivance Produces Them Quickly in Large Numbers.

If chocolate creams were made one at a time by hand the process would be slow and laborious and expensive. As a matter of fact, they are made in large numbers at once and with great rapidity by the aid of simple but ingenious machinery.

There are first made a grate number, thousands of plaster cones exactly alike in size and shape, and of the precise dimensions of the cream it is desired to make. Some hundreds of these cones are attached in uniformly spaced rows on the under side of a board that may be three feet long by a foot and a half or two feet wide—the mould board.

On another board of precisely the same dimensions they build up a covering of layer of prepared starch, which is leveled off perfectly flat on top and which in its thickness depends on the size of the cream to be made in this operation; the layer of starch may be an inch, more or less, in thickness. This is the starch board.

The mould board, with all those rows of little cones or moulds projecting from its under side, is held in a mechanical contrivance over a horizontal endless belt, and now a little further away they place on this conveyor the starch board, whose coating appears now with that smooth, flat, unbroken surface; but in a minute the conveyor has brought the starch board along to a point where it is exactly under the mould board, and then mechanically the mould board comes down and presses its hundreds of moulds all at once into the coating on the starch board, which you see again a moment later, no longer presenting a smooth, unbroken surface, but with hundreds of uniformly spaced cavities.

A little further along in the direction in which the starch board is traveling you see set crosswise of the conveyor belt and just above it a tank which at the bottom is wedge shaped and from which, uniformly spaced across from side to side, project downward a large number of short little spouts.

The tank is kept filled with the cream material at this stage of such a consistency that it will flow somewhat freely, and now here comes along moving rapidly on the conveyor belt one of those starch boards full of exactly spaced rows of cavities, and the instant the first row comes under the row of spouts the spouts all open at once, while from each there flows just cream enough to fill the cavity under it. As the starch board keeps moving so the spouts keep on filling the cavities row after row.

The opening and closing of the spouts is done by a nicely adjusted mechanism, timed to the movement of the starch board, which opens the spouts the instant the cavities begin to come under them and closes them just at the instant they pass beyond; there is no drip from row to row.

Out from under the tank the starch board comes with each and every cavity in every row full of cream; and then the board, just as it is, goes to the dry room, where it remains for from 24 to 72 hours for the creams to harden.

Then, taken from the dry room, the board with the creams all still in it, is put into a contrivance that spills them all out into another carrier that carries the cream along between camel's hair brushes which brush off any particles of starch that may have adhered to them, and then the creams are ready to go to

Wreckers Will Probably Get the Grounded Ship Into Deep Water.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 7.—The steamer Lexington, which went aground during the recent storm off the South Carolina coast, at Botany Bay Island, has been moved 700 feet toward the open sea, by the wrecking crew now at work on her.

This information was received this morning by the local agent of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company, the owners of the stranded vessel.

This does not remove the steamship from danger, however. It will be necessary to move her that much further to get her afloat and safe. The wrecking crew is working hard at every tide.

The distance the ship has been moved represents their efforts on two tides.

Much of the cargo of the ship has been removed. It now looks as if the ship will finally be floated.

MARION IN MEXICO

BY TEMPLE BAILEY

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"That's all nonsense," said Marion, as Gloria came back from the kitchenette with the oysters in a quaint blue bowl.

"What is nonsense?" she inquired.

"That you and Marion won't be friends. You are both so perfect—you think alike and talk alike."

"Do we?" she asked. "How long have you known Marion?"

"Three years."

"And in the three years you have been together four weeks. The rest of your knowledge of her comes from her letters. Does she write letters like mine?"

He threw back his head and laughed. "Your letters!" he reflected. "Did you ever write more than four lines to me?"

She smiled as she bent over the bubbling cream in the chafing dish. As he watched her stir it he thought that tomorrow he would be on the cars and that there would be no brown head within his line of vision.

"I wonder if Marion can cook oysters as you do?" he said, suddenly.

For answer she handed him a steaming fork. "Make yourself useful, you are so lazy."

Somewhat awkwardly he got down on the hearth rug.

"Am I lazy?" he questioned, looking up at her, "or is it increasing avoidance?"

"Both," wickedly, "and you must reform."

"Why?"

"Marion will want you to dance and to ride while you are in Mexico, and when she comes north she will golf and play tennis and you will roam with her over the links by day and glide over polished floor by night."

He laid down his fork and forgot the toast. "Will I have to do all of those things?"

"Why not? She is young. She loves the pleasures of youth."

"But you—you don't care for them."

"I am not young," briefly.

"You are younger than I am."

"Oh, well," significantly.

He started to say something, then finished the toast.

"Have you any more uncomfortable things to say?" he demanded.

"Uncomfortable?" her eyebrows

went up. "Have I said anything uncomfortable?"

"That I am old and fat and lazy."

She gave the oysters a final stir. "You are too literal. I have only been telling you that you must not deprive your young wife of the things she loves."

"She is not my young wife."

"She is going to be."

"If she will have me, always remember that, please, if she will have me."

"It is your province to make her have you. You only have to put your mind to it. You've got it in you to make any woman care for you."

He turned her remark over in his mind; then he gasped and stood up.

"Gloria, you don't mean—"

She interrupted him hurriedly. "The coffee's ready, and if I don't serve these oysters they will be cooked to death."

But he was still staring at her. "I wonder," he murmured.

She arranged two thin wedges of toast symmetrically on a plate, heaped the oysters on them, and handed them to him.

He ate in silence for a moment and then returned to the attack. "Do you think I could make any woman love me, Gloria?"

"You heard my opinion. I don't know that I need repeat it," sedately.

"You've always had your own way—and you'll get it now. Marion has probably flirted with a half dozen swarthy suitors this winter, but the fact that she keeps up her correspondence with you shows that she still has an interest in you. And you are good-looking, and rich—"

"Do you think me good-looking?" he interposed.

Over the top of the percolator she surveyed him seriously.

"Your eyes aren't my favorite color—I like brown better than gray, and

Storms and the Storm Door

Storms brought up with an abruptness that caused him to stumble against the glass plate before him.

Then he shook the door, pushed it, pulled it and pushed again, but to no avail. It was characteristic of storms that he did not swear at it.

It was one of those revolving storm doors and in some way one of the leaves had become wedged. He rapped on the glass to attract the attention of the porter standing by the entrance, and that served to draw a crowd which stared curiously at him through the glass sides, much as they would regard some interesting exhibit.

The porter bustled about impatiently, now shaking the door, now peering through the glass. At last he gave an exclamation of triumph. The door revolved within the two segments of a circle and in the compartment across from Storms someone had dropped a soft cigar case. This had wedged the door tight and it was impossible to move the door.

The porter shouted these facts through the glass. Storms groaned. Jessie Ostrom was leaving for a three months' visit. If he got to the train, there might be a chance to say what had been trembling on his lips that last half year. If there was much delay, she would be gone before he could reach the station. He held up a $5 bill against the glass, but the porter shook his head.

"But these doors fold up," called Storms. "I've seen it done. They fold flat."

"I'd have to squeeze you in," explained the porter. "That's the only way they fold. If you were between the other leaves—" Storms gripped his teeth at that "if."

A newsboy outside, moved to action by the sight of the bill, sought to push the obstacle free with a bit of stick. The stick broke off and the door was doubly wedged. He started to try it again but a policeman interfered.

"Smash the glass," called Storms. "I'll pay for it."

"Won't do any good," was the disheartening reply. "We've sent to the makers for a man. He'll be along in a minute." Storms looked longingly at the glass but he could see that the chance of breaking the thick plate without being severely cut were not good, and he looked for the porter.

"Tell the man to take an automobile and hurry," he called. "I must get out of here. I'm suffocating."

The porter nodded intelligently. The door was padded top, side and bottom with heavy rubber strips to keep out draughts. Storms was in what was practically an air tight chamber and he had already exhausted the vitality of the air. The porter reached down and ripped off the rubber from the bottom of the door and motioned Storms to do the same with his side.

"The thin stream of cold air was delicious, and Storms settled himself to wait, though over and over came the thought that by now Jessie's train was out of the station and pulling across the meadows. Perhaps she was wondering why he had not been there—hurt, perhaps, at his indifference. To explain would only render him ridiculous.

Then there was a commotion in the press. A man in overalls pushed his way through the crowd. For a moment he worked with a screwdriver, then swung the imprisoning leaf back. Storms stepped out and as he thrust a bill into the workman's hand he glanced at the clock. Already it was 10 minutes past train time. There was no hope now. He might as well go to the office.

He was still surrounded by a curious crowd and he turned to make his way down the street when a newsboy tugged at his coat.

"Say, boss," he piped. "Th' dame tole me to give you this."

He held up a grimy card and Storms took it. "Come over to the Clapham for some lunch," it ran. "You will need it after your imprisonment."

He did not need to turn the card over to learn the name, though why Jessie should be lunching there when she was supposed to be on her way was a mystery.

Still attended by his escort, he crossed the street to the restaurant. The crowd dropped off at the door and he entered alone. His quick eye caught sight of Jessie and Mrs. Ostrom over in a corner, and he made his way to them.

"I thought you had gone," he cried as he greeted them.

BENEFIT OF EVERY DOUBT MUST BE GIVEN PRISONER

Instructions of Court to Jurors in Beattie Murder Case—First Speech for Prosecution—Jury will get Case Tomorrow.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 7.

Henry Clay Beattie is today listening to the pleading of his lawyers for his life. The opening of court was anxiously awaited because of the receipt of a letter by the prosecution yesterday from someone who, according to Attorney Wendenberg, saw the murder committed. After the receipt of the letter, Prosecutor Wendenberg stated that he might ask the court to reopen the testimony this morning.

Attorney Wendenberg stated when court convened that neither side would try to introduce any more evidence. No limitation was placed on counsel as to the length of the arguments. The jury will get the case tomorrow.

The court then began instructing the jury. In order to find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, said the court, the commonwealth must satisfy you beyond a reasonable doubt that the crime was committed by the defendant. The court charged that murder was the deliberate killing of a fellow being with malice aforethought. If after considering the evidence the jurors are satisfied that Beattie killed his wife they should find him guilty.

The circumstantial evidence should be given the same consideration as direct evidence, but it should be scanned with circumspection. If there is a reasonable doubt as to his innocence he should be freed. Where the proof of guilt is upon circumstantial evidence the jury must be convinced of the guilt of the accused. Where the evidence is circumstantial, as in this case, being largely upon the testimony of Paul Beattie, the law says that the defendant shall be given the benefit of every doubt, charged the court. Little consideration was to be given to the alleged confession of the defendant to the chief prosecuting witness. Each juror, said the court, must be satisfied in his own mind as to the defendant's guilt before he returns a verdict of guilty.

After the court's charge had been concluded, Prosecutor Gregory began the first speech for the state. "No other man could have committed the crime," he argued. The attorney stood near the witness stand and threw all his oratorical and dramatic power into the delivery of his speech. He will be followed this afternoon by Harry M. Smith, for the defense.

Henry stated this morning that he had a good night's rest and slept well. "I'm certain of freedom. If I don't get out this time I feel satisfied that I will be freed at the December term of court. I feel this way because I know that I am innocent. It is impossible for me to feel otherwise," he said to the juror.

Paul Beattie Released.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7.—Paul Beattie was released from prison, where he has been held as a witness since a few days after the murder. Beulah Binford was given permission to leave by Judge Watson. Beulah said she would wait until night and then "It's Broadway for me." The order of Judge Watson ordering the release of the prisoners explodes the rumor that the prosecution was holding the man and girl with a view of indicting them on the charge of being accessories to the murder.

Richmond, Sept. 7.—Judge Watson declared that after delivering the instructions to the jury today he intended to ask how long a time was desired by counsel for the argument and if it was not an unreasonable period he would grant it. He added, however, that he would suggest to counsel that they complete their arguments by tonight and that if the jury did not appear to be very fatigued he would ask them to retire at once and find a verdict. It is not considered likely that the lawyers will be able to finish their speeches summing up and it is expected that they will be continued over until Friday morning. It is now quite certain that the case will go to the jury not later than Friday noon.

J. M. Gregory, the Commonwealth attorney, will open the case for the prosecution and will be followed by Attorney Harry M. Smith, Jr., and Hill Carter for the defense, the concluding speech being made by L. O. Wendenburg of the prosecution.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 7.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., spent yesterday resting in his cell while his lawyers argued in Richmond as to the instructions to be given to the jury today.

As the hours for the announcement of a verdict are becoming fewer the spirits of the prisoner are increasingly cheerful. He is optimistic over the outcome. Although from his observation of the faces of the jury, he is of the opinion that some of them may vote for conviction and some for acquittal but that the jury at any rate will disagree. He is not sanguine about an acquittal at present as he is on a second trial.

"Boys, I hope to eat dinner at home Sunday," said Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., as he rested his chin on his hands and peered at the little group of newspaper men gathered on the lawn some fifteen feet away.

"Do you expect an acquittal?" he was asked.

"Well, to be entirely frank with you, I do not at this time. My own guess is a hung jury, seven for conviction and five for acquittal. However, I do expect to get out at the next sitting of court. I am innocent and cannot feel otherwise."

Beattie chatted gaily and seemed glad of an opportunity to talk as he had been confined in his cell all day.

"It is said that Beulah Binford is going on the stage. What do you think of that?"

"I don't know what she would do on the stage," said the prisoner. "She is good-looking, that's true but she has no voice and so far as I know, no talent. However, boys, I do think that a 'skit' with Beulah and the sheriff, Mr. Gill, would make an immense hit in vaudeville."

"By the way, it's rather hard on Beulah to hold her all this time and then not let her go on the stand."

"Do you think the defense would have used her?"

"Certainly. Why not? Had she not been held incommunicado in Henrico jail, I'm positive Mr. Smith would have put her on."

None Believe Beattie Will Go to Death Chair.

Richmond and South Richmond are stirred over the fear that Beattie will escape due punishment by reason of a hung jury. Beattie declares he will have dinner Sunday at the home of his father. No one believes that the young man will go to the death chair, the intense feeling not being allayed by the demolishing of the defense's evidence yesterday. The universal declaration is that a reasonable doubt will exist in the minds of the jury men.

FIRST AT YORKTOWN

Starling Gunn, of Caswell, Fired the First Cannon at Yorktown.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Mr. J. H. Kerr, of Warrenton, solicitor of the Second Judicial district, has been in Raleigh this week attending the Supreme Court. Upon the occasion of a visit to his native county, Caswell, a short time ago, Mr. Kerr went out to the home of LaFayette Murray, who lives three miles from Yanceyville and who married a cousin of President Potat, of Wake Forest College. On Mr. Murray's plantation there is an old cemetery, which has been preserved in good condition since the War of the Revolution, and Mr. Murray took Mr. Kerr out to see this graveyard to show him a monument over the grave of a man whose remarkable deed seems to have been overlooked in North Carolina. The inscription on the monument is as follows:

"Here lies the remains of Starling Gunn.

(Then the place and time of his birth and death.)

Who fired the first cannon at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered to General Washington."

Mr. Kerr said that the Gunns were an old modest family who long lived in Caswell county. In the earlier days they were among the largest land owners in the county, and were connected with the Yanceys, Kerrs and other influential families and have descendants still living in the county. In those days Mr. Kerr said people were more modest than they are now, and this inscription would not have been put upon the monument unless it had been true, and it shows that Caswell county, among its other great contributions to North Carolina, produced a soldier who deserved to rank with Wyatt at Bethel, Bagley at Cardenas and the invincible North Carolinians who gave the State glory at Bethel, Gettysburg, Chickamauga and Appomattox. In addition now to the claim that North Carolina makes of being "first at Bethel, furthest to the front at Gettysburg and last at Appomattox," we can also add "First at Yorktown," which gives North Carolina primacy in every great war in which the country has been engaged from the War of the Revolution to the Spanish-American War.

Death of Infant.

The fifteen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Pendley, died at their home on Summit avenue yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The child died with the terrible disease of pneumonia.

The funeral will take place at the home this afternoon at four o'clock, and the interment will occur in Green Hill cemetery.

HOLDS WORLD'S RECORD FOR CANNING TOMATOES.

15-Year-Old Eunice Gunter of Aiken County, Has Put Up 668 Cans.

Aiken, S. C., Sept. 7.—Miss Eunice Gunter, of Selvern, up to this time holds the world's record, so far as reported, for the largest yield of tomatoes on one-tenth of an acre. Miss Marie Cromer, who is tomato club organizer, visited Miss Gunter a few days ago, and she reports that Miss Gunter has already put up 668 cans of tomatoes of three pounds each. Miss Cromer also says that Miss Gunter has considerable tomatoes yet in her garden to can and that she will probably reach 700 cans. Miss Gunter's yield exceeds that of Miss Isadora Way of Orangeburg county, who has canned 630 cans.

Miss Gunter raised 23 large tomatoes on a single vine, which is probably the largest number to be picked from one vine in the State. She is 15 years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gunter.

Miss Katie Gunter, who was last year awarded a scholarship to Winthrop college in recognition of her remarkable yield of tomatoes, the world's record, has successfully passed the entrance examination to Winthrop, and will leave September 19 to enter that institution. Miss Gunter had to receive special instruction in order to enter the college this year, as her home school had not advanced her sufficiently to make the entrance examination.

ALEUTIAN PEAK SPOUTS GREAT SMOKE COLUMN.

Expeditions Were Unable to Photograph It Owing to Foggy Weather.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 7.—Mount Pavlov, the volcanic peak in the Aleutian islands, has been active this summer, according to advices brought by the bark Guy C. Goss.

Owing to the vigor of Bogoslof, Shishaldin and Pavlov, the famous Aleutian volcanoes, during the year 1909, and the fine weather for observation of them, a number of expeditions were sent out last summer to photograph them, but the weather the present year has been so foggy that it has been dangerous to approach the volcanic islands.

On the way north the Goss observed the Pavlov sending thousands of feet into the air a column of smoke, which branched and spread out like the limbs of a huge tree. What appeared to be lava, but what was probably ashes, poured down the sides of the peak.

On the southern voyage no observation could be made.

BRIDE IN BANDAGES.

Severely Burned Trying to Save Her Wedding Gown.

Vineland, N. J., Sept. 7.—A wedding occurred here this evening under circumstances that were unique. Miss Emma Goodell was the bride, and, instead of wearing the wedding gown made for the occasion, she was swathed in bandages. Late last night the expectant bride was admiring the pretty dress, when it caught fire from a light. In the effort to save the garment and to keep the house from burning down Miss Goodell was badly burned on the face and arms. Her luxuriant hair caught fire several times, but here heroic fight won, while all the rest of the house was wrapped in slumber.

With true womanly grit Miss Goodell announced this morning that the wedding would take place on time. The bridegroom is Edward Vinyard, a young business man, and the ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner F. Goodell, on Butler avenue.

COTTON AT $1,030,000,000.

Richest Tropical Crop in the History of the World.

New Orleans, Sept. 7.—"No American cotton crop ever grown has sold for as much as the one just marketed, the total value, including the seed, having been $1,030,000,000," according to the report today of Colonel Henry G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

With 1,700,000 bales less than contained in the bumper crop of 1908-'09, the crop just marketed netted the South $254,000,000 more. The 13,511,000 bale crop of 1906-'07 brought $222,000,000 less than the season which ended September 1, 1911.

DYING OF SCORCHER'S TOSS.

Auto at 40-Mile Speed Runs Down Trolley Passenger.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 7.—While alighting from a trolley car this afternoon Leslie Evans, 19-year-old son of Prof. and Mrs. Hayden Evans, was knocked down by a touring car at a 40-mile speed driven by Herman Behrens, an iron manufacturer.

The unfortunate young man was thrown ten feet in the air by the force of the impact. He was rushed to the State Hospital, but it was found that he was suffering from internal injuries, of a necessarily fatal nature.

Behrens was placed under arrest to await the result of Evans' injuries.
